

Leadership Learnings from the Arena

What if everything you did as a leader was mirrored back to you in a meaningful way? Leadership learnings through horsemanship may seem a far cry from what today's teams need but it is exactly these kind of experiences that get us thinking outside of normal. Horses are great lateral thinkers. For individuals, for organizations to succeed we need creative thinkers, people who can ask great questions, think differently and do more with less.

Nancy Lowery always wanted to work with horses when she grew up, she just needed to learn a few things along the way.

In 2004 Nancy launched The Natural Leader offering Leadership through Horsemanship. Combining her lifetime passion for horses, 15 years corporate experience and every bump and bruise along the way, she creates leadership and team learning programs that are meaningful to all who enter the arena.

In 2013 ATBFinancial said yes to learning about Leadership Presence through Horsemanship hosting over 50 programs. Nancy is proud to include clients such as UofC Cont Ed; Calgary Stampede; Shell Canada; Suncor; Pengrowth and Finning Canada to name a few in the herd.

What Others Say

"In the aspect of conversations and leadership, Nancy Lowery through The Natural Leader displays incredible clarity on how we as leaders show up within a relationship. Her ability to make this connection through horsemanship is clear, profound and immediate."

Allen Metke, Leadership Learning & Development ATBFinancial

"Nancy did a wonderful communications and leadership program with my team. Not only was it interactive and engaging, but we learned so much while having a great time! In the end we walked away a stronger team with a new appreciation for our communication styles. I would recommend Nancy's sessions to anyone looking for a team activity that gets your group out doing something a different and teaches them about themselves."
